The last Rootes Journal The End of an Era

As we have seen this year with the passing of singers Judith Durham, Olivia Newton-John and HRM Queen Elizabeth II, no one lasts for ever, and while the music lives on, we now have HRH King Charles III.

Thus, it is with some sadness that after 40 odd years of producing the Gold Coast Family History Society's Rootes Journal, the 2022 October edition will be the last one to be published.

While the Journal will cease to be produced in its current style and format it will not be disappearing altogether. A new chapter will commence in 2023 with the introduction of a Blog page on our website.

The new blog page/s will be called Rootes Blog in honour of the long-standing tradition of publishing members stories in the Journal about their research journey and families.

The decision to create a Blog page and merge the Journal and Saplings was not taken lightly and was in the best interest of the Society and its members.

More information regarding the merger will be forthcoming over the next few months.

COMING SOON

Rootes Blog - 2023

At the AGM in September, the committee announced the merge of the Rootes Journal and the Saplings E-News.

It was also announced that the Society will add a Blog page to its website called the Rootes Blog.

Blog pages offer a wonderful opportunity to spread the word. By their very nature Blog pages are forever being updated making the web pages dynamic, which Mr Google loves. So, the chances of a connection from a wider audience than just your fellow members are huge.

One of the best features about a Blog page is that you have almost unlimited space to convey your story along with photos, charts, maps etc., plus it will stay there for all to read any time they please.

Also, by introduction a digital platform (Blog Page) for members to tell their stories, will not only have a positive impact on the environment but also on Society's budget, given the rising cost of postage and other items associated with the publication of the journal.

One of the main features of the Blog page is to allow others to comment on the story, this being at the heart of a blog page. However, the Committee are yet to determine what the protocol will be around this.

Be assured that no stories will be published to the Blog page without authorisation, by the Author.

President's Report 2022

Present by Fay Carbis - President

AGM on the 10 September 2022

Thank you all for attending and welcome to our guest speaker, Brian Adams who is Vice-President of the Gold Coast Historical Society & Museum.

It is with pleasure that I present my report for 2022. Fortunately, this year has not been as challenging as 2021 but the Covid virus is still in the community and we continue to exercise some degree of caution.

In October last year Kyla Stephan presented the first Seminar we have been able to conduct in quite some time. The topic was 'House Histories and Cemetery Stories' and it was nice to have a face-to-face meeting after so long. For our July Computer SIG meeting we had a Zoom presentation from Cara Downes who works for the National Archives in Cannon Hill. Cara told us about the progress of the digitisation of Australian WWII records.

For sometime now there has been discussion about the future of the Rootes Journal. Back in 2015 Bev wrote a piece on how she feared for the future of the Journal as there were problems even then with getting enough article contributions.

The results and feedback from the survey carried out earlier this year were encouraging, however while many of you indicated that you would like to see more stories, the support for this has just not materialised. The Journal is for members by members. It should not be up to the editorial team to write ALL the content. There are members who have contributed to the Journal, but it is not enough. The fact remains, without original content from members, there is no Journal, even in an electronic form.

The overall cost of producing the Journal has been reduced by being printed inhouse, by members picking up their Journals and more members opting for an e-journal. However, there are still several costs involved, including the ever-increasing cost of postage, along with a lot of time and effort.

While cost is not the only factor impacting the future of the journal, there has been much discussion regarding the relevance of the Journal without the member articles. Bev did a fantastic job producing the Journal for over 20 years and the editorial team has done a great job restyling it and continuing with it.

From a financial point of view, you can see that things could be better and we just cannot afford to absorb the cost of producing the Rootes Journal into the future. I know some members are going to be disappointed by this decision but your committee has the responsibility of managing the societies finances in a responsible fiscal manner. Over the last few years many societies have had to make the difficult decision to cease producing journals because of the cost and this is an indication as to how our way of communication is changing. Nothing stays the same and we must adapt or we will cease to exist.

Therefore, your committee has decided to merge the Rootes Journal and Saplings to have a monthly e-newsletter which will include members information, committee news and what's coming. It is hoped that the new style newsletter will encourage members to send any snippets of news or information to the editorial team so it can be included in the next edition. Printed copies of the e-newsletter will be available in the rooms for those who wish to pick it up. Members can add their name to the pickup sheet near the filing cabinet where the catalogues are kept.

A Blog page will also be introduced on the website, and in recognition of the longevity of the Rootes Journal the new blog page will be named Rootes Blog.

President's Report 2022

Blog pages can contain almost any content and the plan is that our blog page will contain an array of old and new material from the Rootes Journal.

A Blog Page will also enable our Society to reach a much wider worldwide audience. I think a lot of us already read Blog pages but don't quite realise it. Once again, it is the way our communication methods are changing.

This is all a big change and will commence at the beginning of next year. It is still a work in process so please bear with us while the exact format is being worked out.

As I have already mentioned, our financial position could be better and with this in mind, your committee has decided to keep the Membership Fees the same but increase the Day and Special Interest Group fees to $2.00 per session. It has also been decided to close the library at 2pm, instead of 2.30pm, on Tuesdays & Wednesdays as the library is not utilised after lunchtime on these days. This is only half an hour early but it is tedious for our volunteer library assistants having to remain in the rooms for extended periods without any patrons.

Committee member Jenny Young has been doing a great job with our publicity which resulted in over 24 people attending during the August Open Day last month. She is also writing a monthly genealogy article to appear in the Gold Coast Over 50's magazine. Margaret Deacon held three 'Introduction to Family History' sessions at local GCCC libraries in August.

Family History Month held in annually August every year turned out to be very successful for us and resulted in 13 new members joining our Society. Well done ladies.

Pam Oldham continues to make sure the Room Roster is completed each month and that our rooms are open for our advertised hours, sometimes this is not an easy task, thanks Pam. Also, thanks to our dedicated team of Room Assistants, without whom we would not be able to open the rooms for the number of hours we do. Your willingness to take on an extra duty when needed is much appreciated.

Thanks to the Dream Team who work quietly in the background and continue to clean and maintain the rooms throughout the year. I am sure they would welcome any other willing workers who can assist them throughout the year.

Our dedicated scanning team are doing a great job and have so far scanned over 200 books from our family history section. These are now PDF searchable on the internet computers.

Thanks also to our SIG organisers who do a great job in their particular fields, particularly Ann Metcher, who continues to come up with interesting topics for the monthly Computer Group SIG.

Last, but not least, a huge thank you to Sue McKenzie who has not only constructed our website but continues to maintain it, sometimes on a weekly basis. Sue is also responsible for our monthly Saplings E-Newsletter, Rootes E-Journal and other MailChimp newsletters to keep members up to date with what is happening. Sue and the editorial team have also put a lot of time and effort into advising the committee on the best way to move forward with our overall communication options. Thank you to the editorial team for doing a great job under difficult circumstances.

Finally, I would like to thank each and every one of the committee members for their hard work, support and valuable assistance throughout the year because without them the Society would not be run as efficiently as it is.

Photographer of Leeds, Yorkshire

The Wormald Family History - the last book I have published for the Mabey Family

by Jennifer M. M. Rowe

Edmund Wormald was born in 1829, as the son of Joseph Wormald and Elizabeth Nichols, he married Elizabeth Binner in 1858 and they had eight children.

He formed a partnership with William Childs in 1856 they were Photographers at Leeds, Yorkshire. *They had offered portraits on glass or paper, exquisitely finished, warranted permanent, portraits, views of buildings, estates, sculptures, taken in town or country, drawings, paintings and photographs copied. They also proclaimed to be photographers to the Queen.

They were the first to take photographs of the newly built Leeds Town Hall and a series of their photographs were presented to Queen Victoria when she opened the Leeds Town Hall.

The partnership ended in 1859, and Edmund continued his work as a Photographic Artist and documenting Leeds. Many of his photos record historic areas that have since been redeveloped. Wormald's negatives no longer survive, many of his topographical work survives and continues to be of great value to local historians.

His wife Elizabeth was diagnosed with cancer and died on 7 April 1890 and his son Charles Edmund Wormald died of tuberculosis on 9 May 1890. Edmund dissolved the business in 1891, his artistic spirit was totally broken after his wife and son had died.

He was missing from the 1891 census, although his children were living at the family home, Emily was the head and sister Kate 26, single, a dressmaker. In the 1901 census both Kate and Edmund were missing. Kate was recorded in the 1911 census at Hendon, Middlesex.

No one has previously found Edmund's death, but there was a death registration for an Edmund Wormald at Hendon and the age fits Edmund. I purchased the certificate from the GRO and voila it's Edmund. He was living with daughter Kate at The Chase, Pinner, Middlesex, she was also his death informant. Kate died in December 1911 at Hendon, Middlesex.

In 1891 Edmund's son Harry was living at the family home and worked for Uncle Joseph Wormald as a Photographer's Assistant. Harry arrived in NSW about 1894 and settled at Grafton. Married Martha Anne Spring, they had twelve children and as they say the rest is history.

Do you have a ship wreck in your family history somewhere?

Yes, not sure, then take a look at WRECKSITE website.

It is not the prettiest website I have come across, but what it lacks in beauty, it makes up for with a treasure chest of information.

“The WRECK SITE is the world largest online wreck database. They have 206,490 wrecks and 176,160 positions, some 72,890 images, and 2,566 maritime charts, plus 32,800 ship owners and builders and a lot more including a People Search tool. This site has so much info available to those who wish to read more at Wrecksite:” <https://wrecksite.eu/Wrecksite.aspx>

Using Fiction in Your Research

Can It Help

by Beverley Dwyer

Have you ever considered how a work of fiction can help you with your research?

Most professional authors are very meticulous in getting their facts right for the background of their novel. This can give you a great insight to, for example Victorian life, Regency, Tudor and even the early 20th Century. Let's face it, family research is not just about names and dates, you need to know how your ancestors lived and survived.

As a big fan of English mysteries I believe that there are some great authors who generally write about the following periods.

Victorian - Anne Perry	Tudor - Philippa Gregory
Victorian - Charles Finch	Tudor - M J. Trow
Edwardian - Clara McKenna	Victorian & WWII - Jim Eldridge
Post WWI - Barbara Cleverly	Post WWI - Charles Todd
Regency & 1920s - Carola Dunn	1600s - Alys Clare

And let's not forget Charles Dickens, after all he had firsthand knowledge of the Victorian era.

Why would these books be recommended? Reason is they are mostly available at Gold Coast City Council libraries. Our local libraries are brilliant and I cannot praise them enough – the service is first class. Go online, have a look at the latest books they have acquisitioned, you can even put in a request for them to purchase some you would like.

I personally choose mystery novels because that is my preference but any novels with an historical background will provide you with the insight into the life of your ancestors.

PS. there are also many Australian books that allow you to do the same thing.

Stamp Duty on Baptisms, Marriages & Burials

by Margaret Collins

The Stamp Duties Act of 1783 (23 Geo. III c.67) was passed by the House of Commons of Great Britain in order to raise money to pay for the American War of Independence. Under the provisions of this Act, all baptism, marriage and burial entries in each parish register were subject to a tax of 3 pence. Church ministers who collected the duty were allowed to keep 10% of this fee for their trouble. Refusal to pay carried a fine of five pounds but Paupers were exempt. The unpopular Act was repealed in 1794.

This could explain why many researchers can not find records of their ancestors during this period because some families could not afford to pay the tax.

I recently came across an entry which shows what was recorded in the Parish Registers of 1783 in the Parish of Edinkillie, Morayshire, Scotland.

DNA SPECIAL INTEREST GROUP — LAST ONE FOR THE YEAR 16 OCTOBER 2022

GENETICS ARE MORE THAN NEXT OF KIN - LEARN FROM EACH OTHER'S QUESTIONS

A most interesting session at the last DNA Group with Julie Webb. From a member's question, Julie explained how people connected via DNA can come from the same location. This in turn can determine your hair, skin and eye colour. Julie went on to explain how and why people have different skin colour.

There is so much more to DNA than just finding a long lost relative or a half- sister or brother. Tracking your origins can be a wonderful side to your DNA results. Understanding the basics of DNA is both challenging and rewarding.

Do you have Questions?

Why does my sibling not match with the same people as me?

How many generations do I need to go back to find a common ancestor?

Photo Corner

Do you have a photo that tells a story? What does your photo have to say? Is there a special reason for the people to get together? Where are they gathered? Feel free to submit your photo & short story (150 words min) to the Editorial team and see it published in our next addition.

Select a photo from your collection and write a short narrative to explain to the reader what story the photo is telling what it says about the people, their characters, the event, the place.

What can your photo tell?

Note: the word count for the above is 97.
